The Life of CS Lewis

Early Life and Education

CS Lewis was born on November 29, 1898, in Belfast, Ireland. His early life was marked by the loss of his mother at a young age, which deeply affected him. He attended Malvern College and later, Exeter College, Oxford, where he studied classics and English literature. His experiences during World War I and his subsequent academic pursuits at Oxford shaped his worldview and literary style.

Conversion to Christianity

Lewis's journey to faith was gradual and complex. Initially an atheist, his wartime experiences and philosophical inquiries led him to reconsider his beliefs. A pivotal moment was his friendship with J.R.R. Tolkien, who encouraged him to explore Christianity. By 1931, Lewis had fully embraced the faith, which profoundly influenced his writing and thought.
