What is Figurative Language?

Figurative language is a literary device that goes beyond the literal meaning of words to convey complex ideas, emotions, and images. It enriches writing and speech by adding depth and vividness, making them more relatable and engaging. Here are some common types of figurative language:

- Metaphor: A comparison between two unlike things without using "like" or "as." For example, "The snow is a blanket covering the earth."
- Simile: A comparison using "like" or "as." For instance, "The Christmas lights twinkled like stars in the night."
- Personification: Attributing human qualities to non-human things, such as "The wind whispered through the trees."
- Hyperbole: An exaggerated statement not meant to be taken literally, like "I've told you a million times to clean your room!"
- Imagery: Descriptive language that appeals to the senses, creating vivid pictures in the reader's mind.
